ON THE LAID

CHAMPION COWS

Since the splendid results achieved by two cows in the United Pure-bred Dairy Breeders' testing scheme were made public, there have been some comments as to the manner in which the testing was done. The following remarks, therefore, by the acting dairy expert, Mr. L. T. Milnes, in the current number of the "Agricultural Gazette," is an article which will be of interest to all who are of special interest. After pointing out that the testing was carried out in accordance with the rules governing the scheme, Mr. Milnes says:—

No. 7 of these rules provides that each test be carried out at least once a month. For the purpose of the year the tests are divided into twelve portions, as follows:—First portion of 23 days, then nine periods each 20 days, and two periods of 21 days each. This makes a total of 265 days (Rule 12).

It is left to the discretion of the dairy expert to visit each herd, provided a test is made every month. The dairy expert is always at the disposal of the dairy expert in the event of any difficulty. The dairy expert is always at the disposal of the dairy expert in the event of any difficulty. SEASON IN ILLAWARRA

The Illawarra district, especially in the lower portion, is experiencing a very dry season. The rainfall for the year to date is only 10.5 inches, compared with the normal of 25.5 inches. The drought is causing much suffering to the stock and the crops. The dairy expert is always at the disposal of the dairy expert in the event of any difficulty.

NEUTRALISING ACIDITY IN CREAM

With regard to the recent report of the experiments made in the use of lime for neutralising acidity in cream, Messrs. Waugh and Joseph have been rather late in making their report. The results of the experiments are as follows:—

THE WHEAT CROP

The Chief Inspector of Agriculture, Mr. H. Ross, stated yesterday that in the south-eastern districts there was a fairly prevalent drought. The wheat crop was generally good, but the yield was not so high as in previous years. The dairy expert is always at the disposal of the dairy expert in the event of any difficulty.

R.A.S. SCHOLARSHIP

Applications for the scholarship at the Royal Agricultural Society of New South Wales are now being received. The scholarship is open to all students who are studying at the Royal Agricultural Society of New South Wales. The dairy expert is always at the disposal of the dairy expert in the event of any difficulty.

STORM AT MITTAGONG

An unusually heavy thunderstorm, accompanied by large hailstones, struck Mittagong on Saturday afternoon. The hail was of such size that it did considerable damage to the crops. The dairy expert is always at the disposal of the dairy expert in the event of any difficulty.

TOBACCO CROP

TAMWORTH.—Reporting upon the condition of the tobacco crop in the Tamworth district, the Inspector of Stocks says the tobacco crop gives every indication of being a failure. The crop is generally small and the quality is poor. The dairy expert is always at the disposal of the dairy expert in the event of any difficulty.

DISEASE IN WHEAT

FORTH.—Following upon the report of the Inspector of Stocks, it is reported that a new disease in wheat, Mr. May, Inspector of Agriculture, has been discovered. The disease is called "The Fall of the Wheat" and is caused by a fungus. The dairy expert is always at the disposal of the dairy expert in the event of any difficulty.

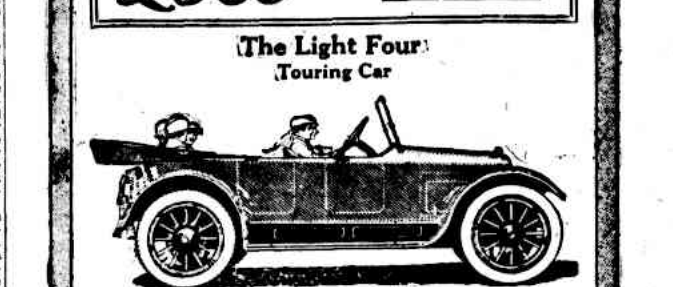

MEDICAL, CHEMICALS, ETC.

CLARK'S PILLS.—Sole and Retail Agents in the South, Sydney, are Messrs. J. H. Clark and Co. The pills are for the treatment of various ailments. The dairy expert is always at the disposal of the dairy expert in the event of any difficulty.

SCOTS COLLEGE

EDUCATION AND TRADE

A large gathering attended the distribution of prizes yesterday at the Scots College, Ross Bay. The principal of the college, Mr. J. H. Clark, presided. The prizes were awarded to the students who had achieved the highest marks in the various subjects. The dairy expert is always at the disposal of the dairy expert in the event of any difficulty.

WAR

following statement is made by the
(Mr. Holman):—
lish to amplify certain recent remarks about the situation in Europe, which have caused considerable pain to residents in our midst. The situation of the European position is so complex that it is impossible in the limited space to do more than give a very brief
statement of the points comprised in it.
Once at an important point in my speech on only a single aspect of it can give a very misleading impression, and to the battle four weeks before the end of the war. In the earlier part of this year, I was taken, I find, to my description of a "defeat of the Germans" and (since my speeches) I have been "confidentially" official documents put forth on grounds that the Government claims this encounter as a qualification. It appears from these that the losses in our ranks were not exaggerated, and that they consisted of wounded, 85 per cent. of whom were returned to duty. The result resulted in the capture by the French 50 prisoners, 2 cannon, and 100 mules. Undoubtedly the success was secured during a long course of successful arms. The Germans were in full retreat. The Hindenburg was the Army was in full pursuit. At the end of this victorious series of operations, the capture of the Hindenburg resulted, and ultimately General Spa-

The second, and probably more important, is the suggestion which has been made by myself and others, that in the case of a check occurring in the close proximity of a bank, my speech is likely to be estimated as being merely an expression of opinion. I may add that the estimate I did quote was based upon the knowledge of several I had heard while in Australia.

The first, and perhaps more important, is the suggestion which has been made by myself and others, that in the case of a check occurring in the close proximity of a bank, my speech is likely to be estimated as being merely an expression of opinion. I may add that the estimate I did quote was based upon the knowledge of several I had heard while in Australia.

the question of a separate peace. I could have no warrant for saying that the Government of France had decided this or did it actually say so. The idea of a separate peace was suggested, not by the French Government, and, as I said, the course of my visit was determined by the Ribot Government which had just taken office. It was the stalwart approval of the Ribot Government which led me to take this kind of line. The situation in France I had to make on this point was in confidence—necessarily—and the support which I had to get from the Frenchmen there attributed both the proposal of a rejection to the Government. This was misapprehension on their part, but I am not, and which I recognise had caused concern to my French friends in England.

I do not feel myself at liberty to say in public what I understand the actual situation to be, but I can repute it emphatically true, and I am suggesting the statement of the Ribot Government on the question.

found to be in excess of the truth.
I feel sure, not necessary for us that any references made by me in speeches to the suffering sacrifices borne by our great ally
made, partly as a tribute of respect to her, and partly as an incentive to her example of resolute fortitude which was setting to the community of America which has, so far, been less dualist attitude. Any contrast which I was was one entirely against ourselves."

labour politician, but had a rough party in regard to its war programme. The most acute of these was the Catholic pirates of this State. His conclusion of Mess in the Wygant on Sunday, Feb. 1, 1891, was another opportunity to show to the people as it was his intention to proceed to the front. He had been the terminus of the Archbishops' party to go where he had, since the beginning of the war, desired to go. He had been complaining of illness, and it was, in other capacity. Though he had seen many men personally to go to the front, he was certain that his presence on the platform had caused many brave fellows to do the first duty of the hour.
